Dear Cardinal Family,

My favorite question this week: "Is this a COVID testing site?"

Over the course of two days, almost 1,600 kids and families drove around Thomas Worthington's campus. ID cards, textbooks, technology, and art supplies were flying off our shelves, and some outstanding items from the spring and summer came back to school. At one point, when the line of cars waiting for photographers was extra-long, a community member using the bike path rolled up to ask if we were a COVID testing site. I chuckled and said it was just the line for school pictures.

Even though we were masked and socially distanced, the energy was the same. It still felt like schedule pick-up. There was excitement, nervousness, awkward jokes, and a variety of approaches to school pictures. It was a suggestion of normalcy--something we are all craving right now.

We are excited to kick off the 20-21 school year next week. We look forward to working with you and your family. We are certainly going to learn and grow together in the remote format. Our staff has been working hard to be ready to hit the ground running and make adjustments as we go.

See you (virtually) on Monday!

Go Cards!

Pete Scully
Principal
